
CONTENTS

RISS reports

Russia – NATO: What Lies Ahead?

The "strategic partnership" proclaimed in bilateral documents belies the reality of the relationship between Russia and NATO. Following the end of the Cold War our situation is one of "neither friend nor foe", and the model of Russia – NATO relations is founded on the principle of "deterrence – cooperation" 7

International Policy

Mamedova L. K. A Discussion on British Social Problems

In Great Britain today the process of interaction between government and society is complicated by several, mostly economic, factors. Transformational changes in civic society itself are a not insignificant factor, in response to which the Conservative party led by Prime Minister David Cameron has proposed the concept of "Big Society" 24

Svistunova I. A. Turkish-Iraqi Relations in Conditions of Regional Instability

Revolutions in the Arab world and the withdrawal of U.S. occupying forces from Iraq have strained Iraq's internal political situation and impacted relations between Turkey and Iraq. The active development of ties between Turkey and Iraqi Kurdistan against a background of deteriorating relations between Ankara and Baghdad adds a new element to Turkish foreign policy in the Near East 38

Pavlikova M. M., Kryazheva O. L. Parliamentary and Presidential Elections in Finland: Dynamics of Developing a Mediatized Public Sphere

The conditions for and methods of shaping social opinion and the agenda in today's Finland and its political life are analysed using materials published in leading Finnish newspaper Helsingin Sanomat as well as Finnish blogs and Internet forums – indispensable elements of the public sphere. The authors focus on the parliamentary elections of 2011, the presidential election campaign of 2012 and the phenomenon of Timo Soini and the party of "True Finns" 55

New Eurasia

Nemensky O. B. Russo-Polish relations after the Smolensk Tragedy

The article analyses relations between Russia and Poland in the three years since the crash of the Polish presidential plane near Smolensk on 10 April 2011. Particular attention is given to alternatives in bilateral relations offered by Poland's main political parties, as well as changes in social opinion in both countries 75

Ivanov V. V. Nationalist Separatism in Finno-Ugric Republics of the Russian Federation and the Foreign Factor

The article analyses the history of Finno-Ugric separatism in the Russian Federation, discussing foreign ideological influences on the Finno-Ugric peoples of Russia. The author demonstrates Estonia's attempt to foster in the Finno-Ugric ethnic groups of the Russian Federation a sense of community with the peoples of Finland, Estonia and Hungary and to promote ideas of Russians as enemy "others" and Russia as a "foreign" and "occupying" state 95

Defense and Security

Dubov D. V. U.S.-China Rivalry in Cyberspace: The New Cold War

The article considers the growing geopolitical confrontation between the United States and China, as well as its impact on the development of cyberspace. The real world rivalry of those states could morph into a new type of cold war in cyberspace – Cold War 2.0. The new modes of conflict – cyber espionage, cyber sabotage and cyber arms race – are explained 111

Novikov V. E. Crisis Surrounding Iran's Nuclear Program and Prospects for Resolution

The article considers the developing crisis surrounding Iran's nuclear program from 2003 to date. The effectiveness of international sanctions as an instrument of coercion against the Islamic Republic of Iran to stop the development of sensitive nuclear technologies is analysed, and the possibility and potential implications of "resolving" the Iranian crisis by means of force explored. Potentials possibilities of resolving crisis by diplomatic mean is also analysed 126

Economy

Glushchenko Y. N. Conditions, Problems and Prospects of Economic Cooperation between Russia and the United States

The article analyses current issues in trade and economic relations between Russia and the United States. Special attention is given to political, legal and economic barriers to deepening economic cooperation 148

Prokopenkova I. O. Supporting Innovation in the Space Industry: U.S. and European Experience

The development of innovation in the space industry currently faces a number of challenges. As the focus of world innovation activity shifts to adjacent market segments, as military and civilian sectors converge, and as the processes of generating, distributing and exploiting knowledge are globalised, the range of administrative tasks required of government expands. Increasing investment in research and development of breakthrough technologies is required. Strengthening co-operation between government, science and business, as well as long-term planning and coordination of the innovation process, takes on an increasingly greater importance 165

Zakharov P. V. Monetary Policy of the U.S. Federal Reserve System (2007–2013)

The financial crisis of 2008–2009 led to a major change in the monetary policy of the U.S. Federal Reserve system. The central bank had to turn to unconventional monetary policy tools known as "quantitative easing" to impact financial markets. The Federal reserve's aggressive policy contributed to the recovery of the U.S. economy, albeit with mixed consequences 189

History

Troshin N. N. On the 200th Anniversary of the Protectionism versus Free Trade Debate in Russian Foreign Economic Policy

The debate between protectionism and free trade is relevant but not new to Russian foreign policy, beginning as far back as 1816 with the adoption of a new customs tariff. The article presents both sides of the debate and considers the influence of the "liberal" tariffs of 1816 and 1819 and "protectionist" tariff of 1822 on Russian foreign trade and the economy in general 209

Reviews

Volhonsky B. M. Russia in the Mirror of India

Book review: Zagorodnikova T. N., Kashin V. P., Shaumyan T. L. The Image of Russia in India's Public Consciousness: Past and Present / Inst. of Oriental Studies of the Russian Academy of Sciences. Moscow : Nauka, 2011. 296 p. : ill. 219

Maltsev D. A. Russian History Revised in the Works of Russian Publicists

Book Review of series by A. M. Burovsky published in recent years: Suvorov V. The Union of Star and Swastika: Counter-aggression / V. Suvorov, A. M. Burovsky. Moscow, 2011. 478 p.; Burovsky A. M. The Enlivened Nightmare of Russian History: The Terrible Truth About Muscovy. Moscow, 2010. 380 p.; Burovsky A., Bushkov A. The Russia that Never Was – 2. Russian Atlantis. Krasnoyarsk ; Moscow, 2000. 512 p.; Burovsky A. M. Napoleon: The Saviour of Russia. Moscow, 2009. 413 p. 223