
CONTENTS

International Policy

Shishkov A. S. The Political Evolution of the Cuban Diaspora in the United States (1991–2019).

The article examines the political evolution of the Cuban diaspora in the United States during the period of 1991–2019. The author is intent on defining whether recent demographic and social changes in the country have led to a new ideological and practical situation which is more favorable to establishing better relations with socialist Cuba.

Keywords: Cuba – the USA – diaspora – migration – Latin America – Hispanics 11

Kravchenko I. Y. Religion's Place in the Current U.S. Socio-Political System: A Role of Think Tanks.

Religious organizations have a considerable impact on the U.S. political system functioning. The recent tendencies point to their growing numbers, and Trump's victory in the 2016 election has drawn more attention to the issue in the political discourse. The article's intention is to study religious organizations' role in shaping the current U.S. political agenda. The author also observes the issue of methods and means which lobbyists and think tanks practice to influence the political decision making process.

Keywords: the USA – religious organizations – D. Trump – think tanks 27

Demidov A. P. German NGOs in the Western Balkans.

The article systematizes information about German NGOs which are present in the Western Balkans and gives an account of their role in the realization of German's foreign policy. The author analyses their priority working areas, means of influence on the regional countries' internal political situation, and also their connections with local political actors. The German NGOs' activities are characterized by a peculiar "division of labor" which helps achieving a maximum outreach of various local societies strata.

Keywords: NGO – the Western Balkans – Germany – soft power – party foundations 40

Podchasov N. A. The Development of Russia-Bulgaria Relations (2001–2018) as in the Case of Common Energy-Related Projects.

Russia-Bulgaria relations during the first two decades of the XXIth century were marked by sizable fluctuations. The full cycle from close cooperation to mutual alienation and later to pragmatic "bridge building" has passed until 2018.

The author sees the reason of such fluctuations in an external pressure on Sofia and the inability of the Bulgarian government to assert national interests from the Euro-Atlantic partners' intrusion. At the same time, a correlation between the Bulgarian internal political struggle and the state of bilateral relations with Russia is also analyzed here.

Keywords: Russia-Bulgaria relations – Simeon Saxe-Coburg-Gotha – tripartite coalition – Boyko Borisov – Plamen Oresharski – Rumens Radev 54

Zelenkova M. S. Some Issues of Vietnam-China Bilateral Relations.

The article analyses some historical background and actual reasons for the current state of affairs which is characterized by prevalent distrust to China among the Vietnamese. That distrust as well as recent unfriendly Beijing's actions in the South China Sea and the Chinese economic expansion in the region have led to a rising "anti-Chinese nationalism" among the Vietnamese public. Vietnam's government has recently encountered some difficulties in its efforts to contain the growing internal anti-Chinese sentiment which has not only contributed to deterioration of the national political situation but is also fraught with potential risks for the regional stability.

Keywords: China – Vietnam – anti-Chinese sentiment – public outcry – the South China Sea – economic expansion 68

New Eurasia

Tasits K. I. Recent Developments in the Relations between the South Caucasus Republics and China in the Context of Belt and Road Initiative.

The article observes the dynamics of China's political, economic, and humanitarian ties with the South Caucasus countries during the recent years. The author analyses Beijing's regional approach and the Transcaucasian Republics' attitudes to the Belt and Road Initiative. An assessment of prospects for establishing new transit routes between Europe and Asia via the South Caucasus is also offered here.

Keywords: China – the South Caucasus – Armenia – Azerbaijan – Georgia – the Belt and Road Initiative – transit routes 80

Defense and Security

Ermakov S. M. Military Power Factor in the Modern U.S. Strategy.

The article contains an analysis of American experts' conceptual approaches to the issue of achieving political goals through the use of military means.

The author observes the Trump administration's strategy papers dealing with the national defense and security, where the modern approaches are presented on the issue of using the military force for promoting the American global interests.

Keywords: the U.S. policy – military power – the U.S. armed forces – "soft power" – "smart power" 97

Chizhov D. A. The Transformation of the U.S. Naval Power.

The article analyses the process of the U.S. naval power building in the face of Washington's declared global competition with China and Russia. The focus is on the Pentagon's actions aimed at shaping a new fleet architecture which would suit the new requirements of military and political leadership.

Keywords: the USA – naval forces – shipbuilding plans – global ocean – Russia – China – global competition 122

Selyanin Y. V. Technological Leadership, State Participation, and Ambiguity of Numbers in the Area of High Technologies: the Case of the U.S. Military-Industrial Policy in the Area of High Performance Computing.

The article observes some recent trends in the public financing of high performance computing technologies development and their provisional results as of the beginning of 2019. The focus is on the issues and perspectives for quantum computer creation, basing on opinions of various American experts including some participants of that work.

Keywords: the USA – high performance computing – supercomputers – giant-scale computers – quantum computers – the U.S. public policy in the area of science and technology development – China 137

Economy

Ryzhova A. V. The Republic of Korea's National Interests in the Arctic.

South Korea regards its participation in the Arctic development as an opportunity for future economic growth as well as for the nation's international status upgrade and for its global governance involvement. The strategic nature of the Republic of Korea's national interests in the Arctic dictates its active position in any future regional developments regardless of any change in the national government.

Keywords: the Republic of Korea – the Arctic – international status – the Northeast Passage – hydrocarbons – shipbuilding 167

Reviews

Lukyanovich N. V. Identity Politics as a Tool Providing Public Information Security.

Book review: Surguladze V.Sh. Identity Politics in the Realities of National Security Maintenance : Strategy, Theory, Practice / By Vakhtang Surguladze ; under the scientific editorship of prof. N.A. Frolova. Moscow : Analytical group "S.T.K.", 2019. 400 p. ("The World in the Ideological Network" series).

Keywords: identity politics – information policy – activity concept of nation – harmonizing the social and political situation – national security – government strategic planning 187

Surguladze V. Sh. The "Soft" and the "Hard" Power of Hegemony: the Theory and Practice.

Book review: Anderson P. The H-Word: The Peripeteia of Hegemony / By Perry Anderson ; Transl. from English by D. Kralechkin ; under the scientific editorship by V. Sophronov. Moscow : Gaidar Institute Press, 2018. 296 p. (The Logos Journal library).

Keywords: hegemony – hegemonism – geopolitics – empire – imperialism – international relations – internal policy – social and international conflicts 193

Article submission guidelines for publishing in the "Problems of national strategy" journal 205

The opinions expressed in the published articles do not necessarily reflect the view of the Russian Institute for Strategic Studies, the journal "National Strategy Issues", or its editorial board. The editorial board can not guarantee the accuracy and veracity of any information provided by the authors.